NIBRS DATA COLLECTION

NIBRS (National Incident-Based Reporting System) is a second-generation crime reporting system that collects data on each single incident and arrest within twenty-two Offense Categories. These categories consist of forty-six specific offenses called "Group-A offenses". Additionally, there are eleven "Group B Offense" categories for which only summary complaint and arrest data are reported.

For each crime incident reported to law enforcement, a variety of data are collected about the incident. These data include the nature and types of specific offenses in the incident, characteristics of the victim(s) and offender(s), types and value of property stolen and recovered, and characteristics of persons arrested in connection with a crime incident. NIBRS goes into much greater detail than the summary-based UCR system that was formerly used as the data collection process.

Since its inception in 2000, all of Delaware's fifty-three law enforcement agencies were reporting NIBRS data to the statewide repository. In 2009, law enforcement agencies active in the UCR Program represented more than 295 million United States inhabitants—96.3 % of the total population. The coverage amounted to 97.1 % of the population in Metropolitan Statistical Areas, 90.9 % of the population in cities outside metropolitan areas, and 93.0 % of the population in nonmetropolitan counties.

As of May 2011, thirty-two states have been certified to report NIBRS to the FBI, and three additional states and the District of Columbia have individual agencies submitting NIBRS data. Sixteen states are only submitting incident-based data, covering 100% of their state law enforcement agencies. Approximately 28% of the population is covered by NIBRS reporting, representing 27% of the nation's reported crime and 43% of law enforcement agencies. Another nine states and four Federal agencies are currently in the testing phase, while NIBRS is still in the developmental stage in four states or territories. According to the FBI, only six states currently have no formalized plan to report incident-based data. Delaware's New Castle County is ranked thirteenth of the country's top twenty-five largest NIBRS participating agencies.

The 2010 data in this report comes from the NIBRS report dated February 21, 2012. The 2011 data in this report comes from the NIBRS report dated March 19, 2012. It is important to note that the data provided on the following pages is intended to provide a full account of a year's law enforcement activity, but there can be significant delays in conclusions and therefore, in the reporting of that activity. SBI makes tremendous efforts to give all agencies the opportunity to have their year's activity entered into the state's information system. No agency is penalized for early, updated or late reporting – In fact, SBI does not prepare the year-end summary and the annual analysis until the last jurisdiction reports.

NIBRS Group-A Offense Categories: Homicide, Kidnapping, Forcible and Non-Forcible Sex Offenses, Robbery, Assaults (all), Arson, Extortion/Blackmail, Burglary, Larceny/Theft, Motor Vehicle Theft, Counterfeiting/Forgery, Fraud, Embezzlement, Stolen Property, Property Destruction/ Vandalism, Drug/Narcotic Offenses, Other Sex Offenses, Bribery, Pornography/Obscene Material, Gambling, Prostitution, and Weapon Law Offenses.

Between 2007 and 2011, the Delaware statewide crime rate decreased 10.02%. There was a 16.25% decrease in the New Castle County Crime rate, a 1.78% decrease in Kent County, and a .71% increase in Sussex County's Crime rate. This is the sixth consecutive year where the statewide crime rate has declined. Between 2010 and 2011, there was a7.72 % decrease in the crime rate for New Castle County. Kent County had a 6.67% increase between 2010 and 2011, while Sussex County had a 3.35% increase.

According to the FBI's "Crime in the United States", *2010 was overall the safest year in almost forty years. The recent overall decrease has reflected upon all significant types of crime, with all violent and property offenses having decreased and reached an all-time low. The homicide rate in particular has decreased 51% between its record high point in 1991 and 2010. Despite the recent stagnation of the homicide rate, however, property and violent offenses overall have continued to decrease, though at a considerably slower pace than in the 1990s. Overall, the crime rate in the U.S. was the same in 2009 as in 1968, with the homicide rate being roughly the same as in 1964. Violent crime overall, however, is still at the same level as in 1973, despite having decreased steadily since 1991.

2010 AND 2011 DELAWARE CRIME MAPS

The first set of Crime Maps show the 2010 NIBRS Group-A Offenses, Group-A Violent Crime Offenses, and Group-A Property Crime Offenses per 1,000 populations.

The Group-A Offenses included in the first map's data are homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, arson, burglary, larceny and motor vehicle theft.

The Group-A Violent Crime offenses included in the second map includes homicide, forcible rape, and robbery and aggravated assaults.
The map legends indicate the offenses per 1,000 populations.

The 2010 statewide average for Group-A offenses is 107.4 offenses per 1,000 population. The statewide average for Group-A violent offenses is 7.3 offenses per 1,000 population, and the statewide average for Group-A property offenses is 36.3 offenses per 1,000 population.

The second set of Crime Maps are for the 2011 NIBRS Group-A Offenses, Group-A Violent Crime Offenses, and Group-A Property Crime Offenses per 1,000 populations. The 2011 statewide average for Group-A Offenses is 105.2, for Group-A violent offenses, 6.6, and for Group-A Property Offenses, 36.2 offenses per 1,000 population.

The difference in crime rates for statewide violent offenses is due to the separation of aggravated assault from the total of all assaults.

These maps do not include all of the reported statewide offenses, just the offenses reported upon in the Statewide Jurisdictional section.

CLEARANCE RATES

In crime analysis, clearance rates are the number or percentage of offenses received that are solved by the police. An offense is 'cleared by arrest' or ‘solved’ for crime reporting purposes when at least one person is arrested, charged with the commission of the offenses and turned over to the court for prosecution.

An offense is also counted as cleared by arrest if any of the following "exceptional" conditions pertain: suicide of the offender; double murder; deathbed confession; offender killed by police or citizen; confession by offender already in custody or serving a sentence; an offender prosecuted in another jurisdiction for a different offense and that jurisdiction does not release offender to first jurisdiction; extradition denied; victim refuses to cooperate in prosecution; warrant is outstanding for felon but before arrest the offender dies of natural causes or as a result of an accident, or is killed in the commission of another offense; or, handling of a juvenile offender either orally or by written notice to parents in instances involving minor offenses where no referral to juvenile court is made as a matter of publicly accepted police policy.

It should be noted that the arrest of one person can clear several offenses or several persons may be arrested to clear one crime. Violent crime (murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault) often undergo a more vigorous investigative effort than offenses against property. Additionally, victims and or witnesses often identify the perpetrators. Consequently, violent offenses tend to have higher clearance rates than property offenses.

CLEARANCE RATES: GROUP-A

There was a 5.94% decrease in reported offenses between 2007 and 2011, with an 8.84% decrease in arrests and an 11% decrease in offenses cleared by the police.

CRIME IN DELAWARE 2000 – 2011 BY JURISDICTION

Delaware Offense and Clearance data appear by agency in the following "Crime in Delaware 2000 – 2011 by Jurisdiction" section. This is a twelve year span of offenses reported statewide by jurisdiction.

'Offenses' are "offenses received" - the primary crime statistic for NIBRS. Because serious charges in a case can be counted separately as an "offense received", these counts exceed the count of complaints. The following section includes counts of "offenses received" for offenses including criminal homicide, forcible sex offenses, robbery, aggravated assaults, arson, burglary, larceny/theft, motor vehicle theft, drug/narcotic offenses and weapon law offenses.

For each type of "offense received" the number of cleared offenses is also provided. 'Clearances' are complaints considered cleared or solved once the police have identified the offender. One arrest may clear several offenses; therefore the clearance rate is often higher than the arrest rate.

The jurisdictional data provided on the following pages for 2010 was obtained from an SBI report dated February 21, 2012, the data for 2011 was obtained from an SBI report dated March 19, 2012.
